JACK THE DULLARD PRINCIPLE

THE MONKEY READING SHAKESPEARE PRINCIPLE

If you were to put a monkey on a pedestal reading Shakespeare, how would you go about it?

An aerial, black and white photograph of the MIT campus. In the foreground, the iconic dome of the Stata Center is prominent. The campus buildings are arranged in a grid-like pattern with courtyards. In the background, a large body of water (the Charles River) flows through the city, with a long bridge crossing it. The city skyline, including several tall skyscrapers, is visible in the distance under a clear sky.
